Adsy Customer Support

Knowledge Base • Effective Date: August 13, 2026

Support Process

Submit ticket → acknowledgement → initial diagnosis → troubleshooting → resolution or escalation → customer confirmation → ticket closure.

Support Request

Include account/project reference, issue description, expected behavior, actual behavior, and relevant screenshots or logs.

Escalation Policy

Issues may be escalated based on severity, business impact, technical complexity, response target, or inability of the first-line team to resolve the problem.

Severity Levels

Critical: major production outage or severe business impact.

High: major feature unavailable with significant impact.

Medium: degraded functionality with workaround.

Low: general question, minor issue, or enhancement request.

SLA

Example targets: Critical acknowledgement within 1 business hour; High within 4 business hours; Medium within 1 business day; Low within 2 business days. Resolution time depends on issue complexity and the selected contract.

SLA Exclusions

SLA targets may not apply to third-party outages, customer-caused issues, missing customer information, force majeure events, or services outside contracted scope.

Emergency Support

Emergency production incidents may be handled according to the applicable support plan and SLA.
